

A close-up photograph of a garden bed. The foreground is dominated by several large, rounded clusters of pink hydrangea flowers. Each cluster consists of many small, individual flowers with five petals, some showing a yellow center. The flowers are set against a dense background of bright green ferns with feathery fronds. The lighting is soft, highlighting the textures of the petals and the vibrant green of the foliage.

live a thousand years twice told, yet hath he seen no good: do not
all go to one place?
