

A close-up photograph of several pink thistle flowers in various stages of bloom. The flowers are vibrant pink with many small, spiky petals. The stems are thin and green, with some dried, brownish leaves visible. The background is a soft, out-of-focus mix of purple and blue, suggesting a clear sky. The overall lighting is bright and natural, highlighting the texture of the flowers.

Psalms 02:07 I will declare the decree: the LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee.